RE: Co-Sponsor Request: Public Sector Right-to-Work

I will soon be reintroducing a public sector right-to-work bill. This bill was previously introduced in the 131st General Assembly as HB 583.

There is a national trend of states moving to implement right-to-work laws. With Kentucky being the 27th state to continue that trend, it's time Ohio steps up to the plate. All of Ohio's neighboring states, with the exception of Pennsylvania, have right-to-work laws on the books.

This legislation:

- Provides public sector workers the choice to opt out of union representation and dues.
- Allows non-union employees to voluntarily make financial contributions to a union.
- Protects unions from the requirement of representing non-union employees.
- Appropriates $30,000 in fiscal year 17 for pamphlets and brochures.

If you would like to co-sponsor this legislation or have any questions, please contact Roanna Thawley at (614) 466-8134 or Roanna.Thawley@ohiohouse.gov. The deadline to co-sponsor is COB, Monday, January 30, 2017. Thank you for your consideration.

MEMORANDUM

To: GOP House Members
From: Representative John Becker
Date: February 6, 2017
RE: Co-Sponsor Request: Public Sector Right-to-Work

I will soon be reintroducing a public sector right-to-work bill. This bill was previously introduced in the 131st General Assembly as HB 583.

There is a national trend of states moving to implement right-to-work laws. With Kentucky being the 27th state to continue that trend, it's time Ohio steps up to the plate. All of Ohio's neighboring states, with the exception of Pennsylvania, have right-to-work laws on the books.

This legislation:

- Provides public sector workers the choice to opt out of union representation and dues.
- Allows non-union employees to voluntarily make financial contributions to a union.
- Protects unions from the requirement of representing non-union employees.
- Appropriates $30,000 in fiscal year 17 for pamphlets and brochures.

If you would like to co-sponsor this legislation or have any questions, please contact Roanna Thawley at (614) 466-8134 or Roanna.Thawley@ohiohouse.gov. The deadline to co-sponsor is COB, Monday, February 6, 2017. Thank you for your consideration.

Thanks Nick. Frustrating some groups don't see the long-term benefit immediately but thrilled to see it make it to the next level!

While coding is certainly one aspect of tech that benefits from a strong math background, I continue to promote the fact that there are other avenues of technology besides coding – QA, Data Publishing, Infrastructure, etc. – these typically don't need Algebra II and make up over 50% of all tech workers; also many tech workers don't attend college either but go right to work.

Let me know how I can help. Glad to make a return trip if needed.

House Panel Advances Computer Science Learning Standards Opposed By Democrats

A measure creating computer science standards for schools was reported out of a House committee on Tuesday without Democrat support.

The measure (HB 170), which moved through the House Education and Career Readiness Committee, caught opposition from some lawmakers because it would allow students to substitute computer science courses for Algebra II in districts that have adopted the permissive standards.

Members on Tuesday also approved an amendment ensuring that only advanced computer science course meeting certain criteria would be eligible to replace the math course as a graduation requirement. The change did little to allay concerns, however.

"I think we should be encouraging students to go into computer science, but I don't want to sacrifice what is necessary," Rep. Dan Ramos (D-Lorain) said, arguing that knowledge of Algebra II is required to pursue a career in computer science or engineering.

Republicans tabled an amendment he offered to prohibit substitutions for Algebra II.

Rep. Teresa Fedor (D-Toledo) said she couldn't support the legislation because she wanted to gather more stakeholder input on the substitution of courses.

"Too many times in Ohio we put the cart before the horse and we have to back the cart back into the bar and start over and all these kids in the meantime are stuck in the vortex of all our mistakes of not being thorough," she said.

Pointing out that more than 30 witnesses testified in support of the measure over the course of five hearings, Chairman Rep. Andy Brenner (R-Powell) said there is nothing that would preclude students from taking Algebra II in addition to an advanced computer science course.

"We've got great guidance counselors in the state of Ohio who do their jobs and make sure every student is on the best pathway that works best for them," he said, suggesting that students who are college bound would likely enroll in Algebra II.

The Department of Education helped create the accepted amendment, which agency legislative liaison Brad Ingraham said would give students flexibility to explore their interests in computer science while still engaging in advanced coursework.

"The amendment will ensure that only a course of equivalent rigor...may be an alternative to Algebra II," he said, telling the committee that the math course became a graduation requirement in the 2012-13 school year.

The department also backed another amendment approved by the committee that clarifies teachers who are endorsed for computer technology must have content knowledge of computer science before teaching classes on the topic. Mr. Ingraham said Ohio doesn't currently offer a computer science endorsement for teachers.

Members also accepted an amendment from the chairman that permits e-schools to establish computer science and technology funds. The original bill permitted all other types of schools to create such funds.

Subject: CCS Announcement

Importance: High

Dear Colleagues:

Our Superintendent/CEO Dr. Dan Good will announce today that he will retire (again) at the end of December and step down as leader of Ohio's largest school district. Though we will be losing an impactful partner in our shared efforts, we celebrate his success and leadership in restoring integrity and public confidence in Columbus City Schools.

You will recall that Dr. Good was appointed Superintendent in 2013, just days after he initially retired as Superintendent of Westerville City Schools. Our community put him right to work.

Over the past fifty months, he has proven to be an effective and outspoken leader in guiding significant academic gains, improving budget accountability, and creating new partnerships across the private and non-profit sectors. So much has been accomplished and our District is back on a sustainable positive trajectory with the right people and processes firmly in place.

Consider these gains the Board and Dr. Good shared today:

- Access to high quality pre-Kindergarten experiences was boosted by 22%.
- A district-wide and community-wide all-hands-in effort on primary reading more than doubled the percentage of 3rd graders promotable to 4th grade four years in a row.
- More students with Limited English Proficiency and Special Needs were better served - more than any other district in the region.
- Achievement gaps that historically separated student groups were virtually eliminated in 26 schools.
- The historic step to offer both breakfast and lunch to all students at no charge prevented the lack of steady access to a nutritional meal from being a barrier to learning.
- Columbus' first Gifted Academy opened for students with superior cognitive skills and talent.
- Local businesses and labor helped CCS transform career tech so more students graduate with in-demand career skills and often jobs in hand.
- A growing number of graduates can afford to go to college, with the Class of 2017 earning a record-breaking $72 million in scholarships and grants.

- Taxpayer investments in the District were protected by reducing administrative overhead, trimming the annual budget by $50 million in 2015, closing under-utilized schools and selling unneeded properties, and launching a much-needed $125-million bond-supported infrastructure repair program to address years of deferred maintenance.
- Protective digital and physical data review systems now provide constant updates on vital compliance measurements for enrollment, attendance and academic measures, further ensuring the fidelity and accuracy of student-related data.
- Key systems and sustainable measures are now in place to ensure that the District can move forward without losing momentum while my colleagues on the Board and I begin the search for Dr. Good's replacement.

At this point, no timetable has been set. The District is focusing its primary efforts on a stable and successful start to the new school year (which begins on August 23) and in resolving current contract negotiations with the District's teachers and classified staff. In the following weeks, the Board pledges to have a public-engaged approach to identify and measure the essential qualities this community needs in a new superintendent and then begin a thorough search process.

I hope you will join me in thanking Dr. Good for his leadership and honoring his work within the District, across our communities, and in selfless service to the nearly 52,000 students who represent the future of our great city.

I will be reaching out to you directly in the near term in case you have any additional questions or concerns.

Thank you for your continued support.

Commissioners' General Session Agenda for 10/03/2017

The Franklin County Board of Commissioners holds its General Session meetings every Tuesday at 9:00am in the Franklin County Government Office Tower at 373 South High Street, 26th Floor. Highlighted below are some of the resolutions/contracts scheduled for consideration at the upcoming meeting:

Short-Term Support for Vulnerable Residents

Franklin County must update its Prevention, Retention, and Contingency (PRC) Plan at least every two years, and the Department of Job and Family Services has a resolution before the commissioners on Tuesday to certify the PRC Plan for the 2018-2019 Federal Fiscal Biennium. PRC dollars can be used to help eligible families in an emergency to avoid eviction, ensure their utilities won't be shut off, pay an auto repair bill or buy a bus pass to make it easier to get and keep a job. Among changes to the plan is an increase in the amount of yearly aid from $1,000 to $1,500, and allowing individuals to apply for more than one category of need on a single application.

Commissioners Oppose to "Right-to-Work" Legislation

The Franklin County Board of Commissioners has long been a strong supporter and proponent the rights of Ohio's public employees to organize and bargain as collective units, and has expressed this position on many occasions, including in 2011 by adopting Resolution 0133-11 which opposed the passage of Ohio Substitute Senate Bill 5. On Tuesday, the commissioners are expected to adopt a resolution declaring their strong opposition to any effort by the Ohio General Assembly to pass legislation that attempts to weaken organized labor in the state of Ohio, and their strong support for the public sector employees that strengthen our communities and our state.

NEW AMERICANS ADD TO THE SPICE OF LIFE IN FRANKLIN COUNTY

Franklin County is the largest in the State of Ohio with a population of 1.3 million, and at our current rate of growth, our population is expected to increase by 500,000 in the coming decades. Franklin County is also home to approximately a quarter of Ohio's New American population, with growing numbers of residents from Somalia, Bhutan, Iraq, Burma, Ethiopia, Japan, Sierra Leone, Jamaica, Liberia, India and China. More than half of this immigrant population arrived in Central Ohio in just the last 10 years.

SPOTLIGHT ON A COUNTY EMPLOYEE

Each year, the Franklin County Dog Shelter takes in more than 11,000 dogs, and Field Supervisor Jodi Kroeger and her deputies bring in most of them. Jodi is a Deputy Dog Warden on the enforcement side of the Department of Animal Care and Control, and helps to supervise more than 20 Wardens and Dispatchers who operate the department's 11 animal control trucks throughout Franklin County picking up loose dogs, protecting public safety, and enforcing the laws in Ohio Revised Code Chapter 955. As such, the

Deputy Wardens constitute a law enforcement agency, and their first mission is always public safety, but the employees' first love is the animals themselves. READ MORE

RE: Co-Sponsor Request: Six Right-to-Work Constitutional Amendments

The following are six separate Right-to-Work related constitutional amendments in no particular sequence. Please join me in co-sponsoring one or more of the below:

1. Private-sector Right-to-Work – No worker should be required to subsidize a union as a condition of employment. Additionally, this will tell the world that Ohio is "open for business."
2. Public-sector Right-to-Work – This is about freedom of association. Like for the private sector, no worker should be required to subsidize a union as a condition of employment.

3. Public-sector Prevailing Wage – Repeals the requirement for taxpayers to pay artificially inflated wages, rather than those that are market-based.
4. Public-sector Paycheck Protection – This prohibits state and local government employers from withholding union dues or fees from workers' wages. Additionally, unions will be prohibited from spending workers' money on political activities without workers' consent.
5. Public-sector Project Labor Agreements – This is the Michigan model approved by the US Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. State and local government entities will be prohibited from engaging in contracts that minimize competition for construction projects by requiring that only union or non-union labor can be considered. A level playing field will be required.
6. Public-sector Union Recertification – Requires annual reconsideration and recertification of workers' bargaining units. This will open up competition for new bargaining units, will give workers a chance to have their voices heard, and will make union leadership accountable to their membership.

These proposals simply ask the General Assembly to put them on the ballot for the people to vote on them individually. Twenty-eight states and four out of five of Ohio's neighboring states have enacted Right-to-Work laws. Clearly, the nation's future is for all workers to have the right to work free of the burden of mandated union payments as a condition of employment. Ohio is being left behind, and it is time for the people to decide Ohio's future.

If you would like to co-sponsor this legislation or have any questions, please contact Joe Michalowski at (614) 466-8134 or joe.michalowski@ohiohouse.gov. MEMORANDUM

To: GOP House Members
From: Representative John Becker and Representative Craig S. Riedel
Date: Wednesday, December 20, 2017
RE: REVISED: Co-Sponsor Request: Six Right-to-Work Constitutional Amendments

The following are six separate Right-to-Work related constitutional amendments in no particular sequence. Please join me in co-sponsoring one or more of the below:

1. Private-sector Right-to-Work – No worker should be required to subsidize a union as a condition of employment. Additionally, this will tell the world that Ohio is “open for business.”
2. Public-sector Right-to-Work – This is about freedom of association. Like for the private sector, no worker should be required to subsidize a union as a condition of employment.
3. Public-sector Prevailing Wage – Repeals the requirement for taxpayers to pay artificially inflated wages, rather than those that are market-based.
4. Public-sector Paycheck Protection – This prohibits state and local government employers from withholding union dues or fees from workers’ wages. Additionally, unions will be prohibited from spending workers’ money on political activities without workers’ consent.
5. Public-sector Project Labor Agreements – This is the Michigan model approved by the US Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. State and local government entities will be prohibited from engaging in contracts that minimize competition for construction projects by requiring that only union or non-union labor can be considered. A level playing field will be required.
6. Public-sector Union Recertification – Requires annual reconsideration and recertification of workers’ bargaining units. This will open up competition for new bargaining units, will give workers a chance to have their voices heard, and will make union leadership accountable to their membership.

These proposals simply ask the General Assembly to put them on the ballot for the people to vote on them individually. Twenty-eight states and four out of five of Ohio’s neighboring states have enacted Right-to-Work laws. Clearly, the nation’s future is for all workers to have the right to work free of the burden of mandated union payments as a condition of employment. Ohio is being left behind, and it is time for the people to decide Ohio’s future.

Speaker Tasks Universities With Engaging High Schoolers Impacted By Opiate Epidemic

University presidents are coming together to devise strategies for reaching out to youth impacted by the opiate epidemic.

They're doing so at the request of Speaker Cliff Rosenberger (R-Clarksville), who said he was recently inspired by a group of Waverly City Schools students impacted by addiction.

Many students in that district live with someone other than their parents and lack access to role models who can highlight life skills and opportunities to grow, he said in a recent column.

Speaker Rosenberger

Speaker Rosenberger said he believes universities can serve as the sources of those mentors.

"It's our communities who are going to help us in the drug epidemic, so how can we get college students to be those big brothers and sisters and give them some credit maybe for service-oriented things," he told reporters last week.

Another facet of his charge to universities is to consider how at-risk high school students can volunteer to earn credits toward college tuition, he said.

"Maybe they earn some credit or some dollars toward college credit so that they can have some ability to go out and do something," Speaker Rosenberger said.

Because reaching out to underserved populations dealing with the opiate crisis will be a priority for the legislature in 2018, he said he's eyeing legislation that would implement such mentorship and volunteer programs statewide. (See Gongwer Ohio Report, December 15, 2017)

University presidents began brainstorming immediately after meeting with the speaker earlier this month and will come back together in January to decide which ideas should be proposed, said Bruce Johnson, president of the Inter-University Council of Ohio.

Institutions have an essential role in the state's ongoing fight against opioids, he said, pointing to research that shows Ohioans with college degrees are 14 times less likely to die of overdoses than those who have only high school diplomas.

"One of the fundamental ways to attack opiate abuse in the state is to have a higher percentage of people in the state obtain a higher education," Mr. Johnson said.

"Students, particularly in hard-to-reach areas of the state, having mentors would help them manage their way through the difficulties and find their way to a public university," he added.

In areas of the state where the opiate epidemic has hit hardest, encouraging students to want to go to college is key because they often don't see higher education as a potential pathway, Mr. Johnson said.

"I think the thing that's really going to give students hope is a pathway which involves access to higher education," he said.

For that reason, it's possible the forthcoming plan will propose financial assistance for high school students who participate in a mentorship program and can show perseverance, Mr. Johnson said.

"Earning your way toward a college scholarship would be a great use of the state's resources," he said.

Any legislative proposals that come from the president's recommendations would be in addition to what universities are already doing on the opiate front, he said. Each university has undertaken initiatives to address the issue.

At Ohio University, low-income patients with substance abuse issues can receive free or low-cost treatment and drug dependent mothers-to-be are eligible for access to medication-assisted treatment programs, obstetrical care, social service benefits and other services. Similar services are provided at other university hospitals throughout the state.

Meanwhile, University of Akron is looking to help students who may be dealing with addiction by working with community agencies to develop supports and programming.

In the research realm, the University of Cincinnati recently received a $1.5 million Third Frontier grant aimed at the epidemic. That total is in addition to $32 million in research funding that's been awarded to the university to be put toward the cause.

Other universities are offering up their own dollars in an effort to find innovative solutions to the state's drug problem. The new Opioid Innovation Fund at Ohio State University will provide $1 million in grants to public-private partnerships that develop programs or technologies to reduce the burden of the opiate crisis.

Right-To-Work, Prevailing Wage Proposals Unveiled In House

A slate of ballot proposals targeting labor laws was introduced Thursday in the House, drawing immediate pushback from one of the state's largest union groups.

The six joint resolutions from Rep. John Becker (R-Union Twp.) and Rep. Craig Riedel (R-Defiance) would ban mandatory union dues for both public and private employees, limit prevailing wage and make other changes guaranteed to spark protests among Ohio's unions.

If passed by lawmakers, the issues would be placed on the 2020 ballot for voters to weigh in, according to Rep. Becker. He said he chose the resolution route after his prior legislative efforts went nowhere.

"It has to do with making Ohio more competitive," Rep. Becker said in an interview. "Currently, Ohio is being left behind. Four out of five of Ohio's neighboring states are right to work. With 28 (right-to-work) states in the union, the trend is clearly in that direction."

Two of the resolutions (HJR 7 & HJR 8) would ban any laws, rules or agreements requiring public and private sector employees to join or pay union dues. They would also prohibit unions from representing non-members in employment-related matters.

Other resolutions would:

- Prevent a public authority from requiring a contractor on a public improvement project to pay workers the prevailing rate of wages (HJR 9).
- Forbid certain requirements or prohibitions regarding labor agreements in government contracts (HJR 10).
- Subject any public employee collective bargaining representative to an annual election to remain certified as the exclusive representative (HJR 11).
- Prohibit dues and other fees from being deducted from the payroll check of a public employee and prohibit those fees from being used for political purposes unless authorized by the employee (HJR 12).

Along with Messrs. Becker and Riedel, nine other representatives have signed on as cosponsors of one or more of the resolutions.

Rep. Becker said Republican leaders, House Speaker candidates and Republican gubernatorial candidates have all told him the same thing: If Ohio is to become a right-to-work state, it needs to be a decision driven by voters.

"They've all got this one consistent theme: the voters have to decide," Rep. Becker said. "I'm taking them at their word and saying fine, let's move forward with that. That's what these resolutions would do. They go on the ballot for people to decide."

Brad Miller, a spokesman for House Speaker Cliff Rosenberger (R-Clarksville), said the speaker will review the proposals.

"The issue of right-to-work has been brought forward numerous times in recent years, and it always generates an important and interesting discussion amongst the caucus," Mr. Miller said. "Since Rep. Becker's resolution was introduced just today, Speaker Rosenberger will review the legislation and will seek input from caucus members before any potential future actions are determined."

Tim Burga, president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, said that neither employers nor employees in Ohio are seeking these changes.

"These proposals are a frontal assault on workers," Mr. Burga said. "It does three things: It takes away rights at work, it drives down wages, and it strips workers of their political beliefs. It's really policies that attack the foundation of what's been a catalyst to create Ohio's working class."

Ohio House Democrats will likewise fight the proposals should they gain traction, with Minority Leader Fred Strahorn (D-Dayton) calling them "dangerous, divisive bills."

"Taxpayers expect us to work together to increase opportunity and create jobs with wages and benefits that can sustain a family," Rep. Strahorn said. "These anti-worker, anti-family restrictions will do the exact opposite."

Opponents point to the public's rejection of 2011's Senate Bill 5 - in which voters voted 62-38% to repeal a law that limited collective bargaining for public employees - as evidence that Ohioans don't support such a move. (See Gongwer Ohio Report, November 8, 2011)

For that reason, Gov. John Kasich, commenting on prior right-to-work legislation from Rep. Becker and others, has said right-to-work is "not on my agenda."

But Rep. Becker contends that SB5 (129th General Assembly) wasn't truly a right-to-work bill but more focused on strikes, benefits and union negotiations. In his view, voters haven't weighed in on the issue since 1958 when voters by a 63-36% margin rejected a right-to-work amendment.

Rep. Becker said he approached Rep. Ryan Smith (R-Bidwell) and Rep. Larry Householder (R-Glenford) about supporting the resolutions but neither has signed on at this point as a cosponsor. Both men are vying to succeed Rep. Rosenberger as speaker.

But the sponsor said he believes the measures would have support in the caucus.

"In conversations with plenty of other colleagues beyond those nine (cosponsors) it's a whole lot of, 'We don't want to go on record with it' or 'we want to see which direction it goes,'" Rep. Becker said. "They just don't want to be in front of it right out of the gate. There's a lot of support, it's just not necessarily public."

Mr. Burga, though, said the proposals are a "political assault authored by out-of-state interests."

"It's never a good time to introduce bad policy but again this is an extreme measure without a constituency," Mr. Burga said. "I would say Ohioans deserve better than this. Just like on Senate Bill 5, we will fight these proposals and encourage legislators to work together to find common ground to create jobs and raise wages."

Children Services Agencies See Growing Burden From Drug Crisis; Overdose Deaths Tallied

The opiate epidemic continues to put a strain on Ohio's foster care system, with a thousand more kids expected to spend the holidays in foster care this year compared to 2016, a report released Thursday found.

The Public Children Services Association of Ohio said the drug problem is driving a dramatic surge in demand for foster care, with the number of children in agency custody rising from 12,654 in July 2013 to 15,145 last July.

At this rate, the state would reach 20,000 kids in care by 2020, with the cost of placing them in foster homes and residential facilities rising to more than $500 million per year.

"We are sounding the alarm now - we need help," PCSAO Executive Director Angela Sausser said in a statement. "We need substantially more state resources before we lose the ability to provide essential services to vulnerable children."

The data indicate increasing rates of growth in the number of children in care, with the total rising from 15,145 on July 1 to more than 15,500 on Oct. 1.

The association pointed to some help it received from the legislature in the budget bill (HB 49), an additional $15 million. Yet foster care placement costs have increased by about $45 million since last year, not counting staffing or other agency services, the group said.
